

WORKPLACE VIOLENCE TRAIN THE TRAINER

Workplace violence is one of the fastest-growing safety concerns for employers of every size, and most local businesses have no trained person or staff to prevent it or respond to it.

This train-the-trainer program prepares law enforcement officers to fill the gap: to stand in front of citizen and business audiences and teach practical, credible workplace violence prevention and response. From threat assessment basics and early intervention through lockdown and evacuation responses and business continuity recovery will be thoroughly covered in this training.

Every workplace in your jurisdiction is a potential audience and potential risk site. Officers trained as instructors multiply your agency's reach into the community, turning prevention education into a standing service rather than a one-time briefing.
